After many years in the making and challenges posed by the financial climate, Trinity Leeds shopping centre has finally opened its eight entrances to the public.

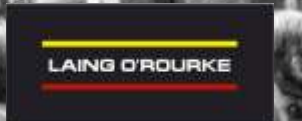

So far it is the only major mall to open in western Europe in 2013 and it was a big occasion for the city centre.

Trinity Leeds, named after the nearby 18th Century Holy Trinity Church, has been a much-anticipated promise for years.

Work started on the £350m project in 2008 but was halted in 2009 because of the recession, delaying its opening scheduled for 2012.

Urban Outfitters Trinity Centre Leeds

Urban Outfitters have open a 12,000 sq ft store across three floors, making it one of the largest shops in the retailer's portfolio.

Northampton Signs were chosen to undertake the manufacture an installation of Urbans new look clothing chain, the first being in the The Trinity Centre in Leeds.

Producing and putting in place high specification signage you'd expect to see for a blue chip brand.

With Urban outfitters being one of the top five outlets in the world it's not surprising we have to produce a wide array bespoke of signage, from illuminated letters, through to murals and complex mounted signs with LED lighting.

As we continue to work with Urban throughout England, Scotland and Wales, and Europe we hope to continue producing innovative, intelligent signage, that stands the brand apart from its competitors.

Northampton Signs were chosen to undertake the manufacture and installation of Burton & DP's new look clothing chain, the first being in the 'The Trinity Centre' in Leeds.

Producing and putting in place high specification signage you'd expect to see for a blue chip brand.

With over 200 outlets in high streets and shopping centres throughout the UK, the Arcadia Group is the largest clothing retailer in the UK.

Since 2001 Northampton Signs has developed a successful working relationship for over ten years with the Arcadia Group.

We have managed projects for all of their brands, TOPSHOP, TOPMAN, Dorothy Perkins, Wallis, BURTON, Miss Selfridge, Evans and MUSE.

Project management and prompt responses are a key service requirement for Arcadia, because there are frequent design changes as new ideas within the stores are pursued.

SINCE 1778

Goldsmiths invited us to develop a new curved fronted facade within 'the trinity centre in leeds.

Situated in what is one of the most prominent locations within the complex, this large store has a curved elevation on a corner plot.

Working to a design agency brief, we were assigned the task of replacing their previous generation signage with the current style and developing a cladding system that would essentially re-skin the whole three-story shop front.

As this is such a prestigious store, we evolved the signage types used on previous projects to help enhance the Goldsmiths brand yet further and make use of the generous spaces available on the fascia areas.

The whole project was delivered by us on time and with 0% snagging.
